

The European Democracy Lab is a think tank generating innovative ideas for Europe.

We promote the European common good beyond the nation state. The core issue of the Lab is to develop a transnational paradigm and explore alternative conceptions of the European polity. We connect research, advocacy and culture.

PROJECT ASSISTANT (RESEARCH)

INTERNSHIP

As project assistant for our research section, you will support the team with our research project on regional parliaments in the European Union. Your tasks include, amongst others, researching and analyzing relevant information and scholarly literature, drafting project-related publications and outreach material, the preparation and planning of academic and non-academic conferences and meetings, and the communication with relevant stakeholders.

We highly value your input and motivation and hence give you the opportunity to co-decide on your activities. You should bring along strong organizational skills and the ability to work independently. As for all positions, keen interest and thorough knowledge of European politics and society is a prerequisite. Applicants ideally fulfill the following criteria:

- A Bachelor degree in political science, European studies, European law, International Relations or a related discipline is recommended
- Experience in research and/or the organization of academic conferences
- Excellent command of English & German, any additional language skills are highly recommended
- Thorough knowledge of the institutions of the European Union

The internship starts on 28 January 2019 (negotiable) and ideally lasts for six months. You have to be an enrolled University student. We can provide for a small expense allowance of 400€/month. Please send a recent CV and a short motivation to internship@eudemlab.org. You can use the same email for any questions regarding the placement. We look forward to hearing from you!
